Gamers, get ready for battle at the Brisbane Showgrounds

For the first time, the Brisbane Showgrounds will host GhMX, Australia's newest event dedicated to gaming, hobbies and model building this weekend.

The two-day event will feature battles, building and a whole lot of Dungeons & Dragons as GhMX brings new table top and card gaming tournaments, creative workshops and retailers, plus the GhMX Scale Model Build Competition to Brisbane. Guests can also check out the RC Racing track and interactive model train.

This family friendly event is for gaming enthusiasts and amateurs, creative minds, hobby enthusiasts and if Dungeons & Dragons is your jam, check out the live demo matches complete with dungeon masters.

Brisbane Showgrounds General Manager of Venue Sales and Marketing Jago Coyle said it was exciting to welcome GhMX for the first time.

"It's always fantastic to bring a new event to Brisbane, and GhMX is something that appeals to a wide audience of all ages," Mr Coyle said.

"We have a diverse mix of events here at the Showgrounds, with Listen Out recently kicking off our music festival season and bringing 35,000 to the Showgrounds, GhMX this Saturday and Sunday in our Exhibition Building and a booked-out events calendar for the rest of the year.

"It's definitely an exciting time in Brisbane and we're thrilled to have a fabulous line-up of popular music festivals and events to look forward to at the Showgrounds."

GhMX will be held this Saturday and Sunday in the Exhibition Building from 10am-5pm with tickets available online.
